How to Find the Freshest Fruits and Veggies When You Need Them

If you have a recipe crying out for strawberries, kale, beets or swiss chard, there's an easy way to find the freshest produce to use.

Try out the Fairfax County Farmers Markets' product search tool at <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/farmersmarkets/product-search.htm>. Just type in the name of the product you need, and a list will pop up that displays where you can find it at the county's 11 farmers markets.

If you've been to a market in the past and have a favorite farmer or vendor you want to find, go to https://www.managemymarket.com/Uploads/OrgFiles/337/Product_List_2016.pdf. The list will show you what each of the market vendors sell and where you can find them.

Fairfax County Farmers Markets are open from May to mid-December at locations throughout the county. The markets are producer-only, which means all of the farmers and producers who participate may sell only what they raise on their farms or make from scratch. All come from within a 125-mile radius of Fairfax County.
